(Updated as on 15 Dec 2015)

Salient points to remember prior to seeking appointment for Class I Medical Examination.

1. What medical do you need to undergo. Check whether the intended medical is an initial or a renewal medical.

(a) Initial Medical. Initial medical is done when a person with a valid Class-II medical applies for the first time for a Class I Medical (a requirement for commercial license). Also, in case the last medical date (Class-I) is more than two years old, a fresh initial Class-I medical is to be conducted only at the IAF centres, alongwith NOC (see below).

(b) Renewal Medical. Class-I Medical Assessments are valid for one year (persons less than 40yrs. of age) or six months (persons above 40yrs of age). The renewal medical may be done anytime from 04 weeks before date of expiry of validity of Medical Assessment to the date of expiry of validity. If done earlier or later than that, an NOC is required. Renewal Class-I medical may be done after expiry of validity of previous (but not beyond two years since date of last medical) alongwith NOC. Renewal medical exam is conducted in IAF centres (list below) and by DGCA empanelled Class I Examiners (list below).

(c) Renewals mandatory at IAM/ AFCME/ MEC(E). The following medicals will compulsorily be done only at IAM/AFCME/MEC(E):

- (i) 4th renewal upto 40yrs of age,
- (ii) 7th renewal after 40yrs of age,
- (iii) All medicals after 60yrs of age and
